

10th Celtic Linguistics Conference

Short Title: CLC10

Date: 04-Sep-2018 - 05-Sep-2018

Location: Maynooth University, Maynooth, Co. Kildare, Ireland

Program:

Tuesday, 4 September 2018

9:00 - 9:30:

Holly Kenard (University of Oxford)

The interaction of gender and mutation in Breton: a cross-generational perspective

9:30 - 10:00:

Charles Wilson (University of Edinburgh) Three birds with one stone: A methodological triangulation to gain insight into Scottish Gaelic morphosyntax

10:00 - 10:30:

Jouna Pyysalo (University of Helsinki)

Ten New Indo-European Etymologies for Old Irish

11:00 - 11:30:

Mélanie Jouitteau (CNRS)

Breton embedded V2 and post-syntactic operations

11:30 - 12:00:

Pórhallur Eyþórsson (University of Iceland) The interplay of syntax and stress in Old Irish: Evidence for indirect reference

12:00 - 12:30:

Esther LeMair (Ghent University)

Subject behaviour in Old Irish: word order, verbal noun clauses, and relative clauses

12:30 - 1:00:

David Stifter, Fangzhe Qiu, and Elliott Lash (Maynooth University) Introducing the Chronologicon Hibernicum

2:30 - 3:00:

Donald Morrison (University of Manchester) Vowel nasalisation in Scottish Gaelic

3:00 - 3:30:

Anton Kukhto (Moscow State University)

Two types of vowel reduction in Gaeilge Chorca Dhuibhne

3:30 - 4:00:

Cormac Anderson (MPISHH)

Abstract consonant representations in Irish

4:30 - 5:00:

Carlos García Castillero (University of the Basque Country) On the use of the Old Irish indefinite pronoun nech ní

5:00 - 5:30:

Elena Parina (Phillips University of Marburg) Relative clauses in the Book of the Anchorite of Llanddewibrefi

5:30 - 6:15:

1st Keynote

Aidan Doyle (University College Cork)

From modern to post-modern: the future shape of the Irish language

Wednesday, 5 September 2018

9:00 - 9:30:

Christopher Lewin (University of Edinburgh) What is a revived language? Linguistic features of Revived Manx in comparison with the traditional language

9:30 - 10:00:

Merryn Davies-Deacon (Queen's University Belfast) Lexical variation in 'néo'-Breton: A corpus-based approach

10:00 - 10:30:

Stéphanie Le Pelleter (Rennes 2 University) The immersive nurseries in Breton, an essential tool of the transmission of the language

11:00 - 11:30:

Marta Listewnik (Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań) "It's lazy but a part of everyday talk" - the acceptability of Welsh phrasal verbs among professional speakers of Welsh

11:30 - 12:00:

Victor Bayda (Moscow State University)
Irish Constructions of metaphoric giving

12:00 - 12:45:

2nd Keynote

Jim McCloskey (University of California Santa Cruz) Microvariation in a tiny Space: Syntax, Sociolinguistics and the Illusion of Disagreement

2:30 - 3:00:

Theodorus Fransen (Trinity College Dublin) Towards a computational lexical resource for the diachronic study of Irish verbs

3:00 - 3:30:

Yuan-Lu Chen (University of Arizona)
Developing an Auto-Glosser for Scottish Gaelic Using a Corpus of Interlinear Glossed Text

3:30 - 4:00:

Brian Ó Catháin (Maynooth University)
Saothrú Georges Dottin i réimse chanúineolaíocht na Nua-Ghaeilge

Contact: Elliott Lash

Contact Email: celticlinguisticsconference10@gmail.com

Linguistic Field(s): Computational Linguistics; General Linguistics; History of Linguistics; Language Documentation; Sociolinguistics

Language Family(ies): Celtic

Meeting Description:

The Celtic Linguistics Conference is a biennial conference about all aspects of linguistic research on the Celtic languages. The conference includes papers and posters on any of the following topics: phonology, phonetics, syntax, sociolinguistics, historical development, speech technology, and issues relevant to minority languages.